Exciting developments are underway in Mar Vista as the community, in collaboration with CD 11 and the Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA), sets out to transform the 405 Freeway underpass at Venice Blvd into a captivating “Gateway to Mar Vista” through a vibrant mural project.

This initiative aims to celebrate Mar Vista’s unique character, diversity, and local landmarks while enhancing the visual appeal of the neighborhood’s entrance. The project envisions not only a mural but a holistic transformation that could extend to lighting, landscaping, and artistic elements within the underpass.

The project is more than just a mural; it’s about creating an immersive experience.

The proposed mural design concepts are dynamic and community-oriented. Ideas include representations of Mar Vista’s parks, businesses, and cultural events like the farmers’ market and Venice Fest. Suggestions also encompass highlighting local neighborhoods such as Hilltop View Boulevard and significant landmarks like the historic tree near Staples.

Moreover, the project is more than just a mural; it’s about creating an immersive experience. Possibly integrating sculptures, lighting, and interactive elements like symbols of cycling, pedestrians, and iconic Mar Vista locations will invite community engagement and interaction, making the mural a focal point for residents and visitors alike.

The vision for the mural extends beyond the walls, incorporating surrounding elements like freeway poles potentially painted with palm trees and a “Gateway to Mar Vista” sign. Future phases could integrate a rock garden, enhanced lighting, bike racks, and seating areas, transforming the underpass into a welcoming and visually stimulating space.

Community involvement is key to the success of this project. Local artists are encouraged to contribute their creative talents, ensuring that the mural truly reflects the spirit of Mar Vista. Residents’ feedback, emphasizing the recognition of family-owned businesses and the natural beauty of the area, has also shaped the potential direction of the project and thematic approach.

As plans progress, CD 11 will be working on budgeting and coordinating with other jurisdictions to realize this ambitious undertaking. The Mar Vista Gateway Mural Project promises to be a landmark initiative, celebrating the essence of Mar Vista and providing a vibrant welcome to all who enter our neighborhood.

Stay tuned for more updates as this transformative project unfolds, marking a new chapter in Mar Vista’s artistic and cultural landscape. Let’s come together to create a gateway that truly embodies the spirit of our beloved community.

Scammers Galore. Be Aware Neighbors and Friends. Protect Yourself by Saying No.

If you frequent platforms like Nextdoor, Facebook, or Citizen, or even just talk to your neighbors, you’re not surprised that scams and other crimes are rampant in our community. The Health, Public Safety, and Homelessness Committee of the Mar Vista Community Council decided to look further into this and provide information and tips to help community members protect themselves.

“It’s not always easy to spot con artists. They’re smart, extremely persuasive, and aggressive. They invade your home by telephone and mail, advertise in well-known newspapers and magazines, and come to your door. Most people think they’re too smart to fall for a scam. But con artists rob all kinds of people – from investment counselors and doctors to teenagers and elderly widows – of billions of dollars every year.”
lapdonline.org

Given that scammers are good at mimicking legitimate companies, a good general rule is if you didn’t request or seek the information, ignore it or say “no thank you.” Our hope is that you will spread the word about what to look out for. Here are some tips to consider:

Door-to-Door Scams: People knocking on your front door in official looking vests with clipboards, representing themselves as working for a well-known company to provide some service to your property, to upgrade, to fundraise.

Tip: Don’t engage at all, or if you do, talk to them through the locked door and tell them “no thank you” or that you will call the company or organization and confirm their visit.

Telephone, Text or Email Scams: Be aware of phone calls, texts, or emails requesting charitable donations, or demanding that you provide personal information and/or pay money immediately, threatening that if you don’t you will be jailed for a debt; that your water and power will be turned off immediately; that your computer has a virus they can fix if you provide access; or that there is a problem with your Venmo, bank, or credit card account that requires you to provide information or money.

Tip: Scammers often use names or emails that are very similar to those of a legitimate organization. If you receive an unsolicited request for money, you should decline, and if you desire to donate, contact the legitimate organization yourself.

Tip: If you owe a debt to a federal or state agency, they will notify you by mail and will not call you, and they will certainly not threaten you with immediate arrest.

Tip: Water and power companies will notify you by mail if you are at risk for disconnection, and have resources to help if you can’t pay.

Tip: If you need help with your computer, you will know it. No one from outside your home or office will legitimately call you to inform you of that. If you have computer difficulties, contact a reputable computer repair company directly.

Tip: If someone calls, texts, or emails you indicating that there is a problem with any of your financial accounts or purchases contact the financial institution or company directly. Do not email, call or text back to the email or number that they just called from. A good practice is to get the correct email or number from your official statement.

Gift Cards and Account Number Scams: There are a variety of scams in which unsuspecting people are asked to buy gift cards to remedy a problem or satisfy a debt, or they are asked for an account number to remedy a problem or satisfy a debt. If this request is coming unsolicited to you via phone, text, or email, the best course of action is to say no. This is NOT a legitimate way of resolving an issue, and thus this request is a Big Red Flag for a scam.

BEWARE.

This is not an exhaustive list of scams, just a start. The important takeaway is that there are scammers targeting unsuspecting people to obtain personal information and money. They often tap on your emotions and put pressure on you. So, when in doubt, protect yourself by saying no, ignoring, and doing your own research to verify.

LADOT’s Ambitious Plan to Connect Westside Neighborhoods with Bike Corridors

The Los Angeles Department of Transportation (LADOT) is embarking on a project to enhance connectivity and safety for cyclists in Mar Vista. This initiative involves the development of a network comprising four key bikeways, with two already secured for construction. Among the proposed routes are two crucial north-south corridors set to traverse Mar Vista: the Santa Monica to Ballona Creek Corridor and the West LA to Del Rey Corridor.

While the Westside boasts several east-west bike corridors such as Culver Blvd., Venice Blvd., Ballona Creek Path, and Expo Path, there remain significant gaps in connecting these routes to one another along a north-south axis. The primary aim of the planned bikeways is to bridge these gaps, bolster traffic safety, and provide adequate space for sustainable transit modes.

feedback on the preferred alignment of the bikeways. For the West LA to Del Rey Corridor, three potential routes were proposed: Barrington/McLaughlin, Federal, and Inglewood.

Each proposed route carries its own considerations regarding traffic flow and safety. Barrington, despite its higher traffic speed and volume, presents an opportunity to create protected spaces for cyclists while maintaining flow for other modes of transportation, such as cars. On the other hand, Inglewood and Federal may necessitate the use of sharrows, indicating shared lanes where cars are expected to slow down behind cyclists. However, this arrangement can be intimidating for cyclists, particularly when cars attempt to pass them closely.

Moreover, Barrington currently serves as a preferred route for cyclists due to its directness and ample space. As such, it already experiences shared mode usage to some extent. This underscores the importance of designing bikeways that not only promote safety but also cater to existing patterns of commuter behavior.

In the case of the Santa Monica to Ballona Creek corridor, two potential routes were put forward: Walgrove/Glyndon and Beethoven. These routes require careful consideration of factors such as road design and potential conflicts between different modes of transportation.

We will keep you updated as the project progresses.
